

Shipping by Boat

Speak with the shipping company about offering you the option of trailer shipment. This is one of the few methods of boat shipments. You could either use your own trailer to transport the boat or you can use the trailer that the company owns. The prices are usually based on the way which your boat will end up being shipped.

If your choice is that you use your own trailer or cradle for the shipment then you have to keep in mind that you are responsible for any damage done whatsoever which are caused by your trailer not being in good enough shape to transport. Before shipping, make sure you look at your trailer and assure that there are no loose bolts or weak spots on the trailer. While using your own trailer may be cheaper, it is important that it is still a safe method of transportation. Look at the condition of the trailers tire treads, air pressure and if necessary replace them. Assure that the lighting system on the trailer works and all the wires are in good shape. It is preferred that you transport wooden boats by their custom cradles because they are made to fit the boats weight accordingly.

If you choose to use the trailer that the company owns then you will want to talk to them about the specifics. Figure out what terms you may have to agree to. They will also tell you how to load and unload your boat. There are many different types of trailers to fit what you need.

Shipping by boat is another option which you may consider. Shipping by boat is usually only for fairly small sized boats. Shipping by boat allows you to get your boat delivered over water covered areas without having to do it yourself. If you are interested in this method, you may want to do more research on shipping by boat.
